MERCYx

Learning Worth Teaching

Join our students as they celebrate a year of learning ideas worth teaching others.

30 future leaders will present their work in the form of short, powerful talks (12 minutes or less). Inspired by their study of English and American literature, race relations in America, and each other, they hope to engage you with their ideas and spark conversation.

Presentations will begin at 6:30PM in the Mercy Media Center, classroom N13, and the small Drama Studio. Please enter Mercy High School through the main lobby on the west side of the building and follow the signs. Each room will host one-third of the presenters. There will be opportunities to move between rooms and sessions.

Please note not all topics will be suitable for younger audiences.
